I expostulated with warmth upon this treatment, told them that I was a. man upon whom the law had as yet passed no censure, and who therefore in the eye of the law was innocent. But they bid me keep such fudge for people who knew no better; that they knew what they did, and would answer it to any court ii> England. The pain of the fetter was intolerable. I endeavoured in various ways to relieve it, and even privily to free my leg $ but the more it was swelled, the more was this rendered impossible. I then re-, solved to bear it with patience: still the longer it continued, the worse it grew. After twa days and two nights I in treated the turnkey to go and ask the surgeon who usually attended the prison to look...
