Not illustrated. 1949 Excerpt: . . . soil loss over the period 1959-64 is of the same magnitude experienced during the previous period. The quality of the erosion-resistant cover of the woodland and idle land has improved but not to the degree that would indicate any great decrease in the amount of sheet erosion to be expected on these areas. The same is true for the pasture lands in this watershed. In West Fork Cane Branch there also has been an improvement in the ground cover that would indicate a slight decrease in sheet erosion from woodland and idle land areas. The main locale of sheet erosion, however, remains on the old prospect areas in the West Fork. In Cane Branch, the situation is much the same as described for the other two watersheds. There has been no change in the major land uses but the cover conditions have improved to the extent that sheet erosion losses on...
