Excerpt: . . . bar on sustainability by a cyclical process of continually increasing its needs through population growth made possible by food surpluses brought about by manipulation of the food web. Model Overview The model ( Figure 1-2 ) was developed in stages. The process began by establishing a basic ecological model with the total mass distributed among all compartments within a foodweb ( Fath et al. 2003 ). The compartments were then differentiated in terms of human control over them by identifying species as being either domesticated or non-domesticated, assigning property rights to each compartment, and indicating intentional changes to the natural flows of mass, such as fences. Finally, a generic industrial process was added to account for resources diverted to human ( non-food ) consumption and use ( Cabezas et al. 2005 ).
